

40 First-Run Picture Reels To Be Seen at Auditorium Today at Shrine Benefit

"Sunday is an appropriate day for the beginning of Atlanta's sunniest period of good humor," declared Henry Heinz, none of Yaarab temple, announcing yesterday afternoon the program for today's moving picture entertainment by the Shrine in the Auditorium.

"We want everybody around this town to begin wearing his broadest smile. We want those few who are away down in the dumps to come up and look on the bright side of things with the members of Yaarab," said Heinz.

"We are beginning today a series of entertainments that will last till summer. Some will be frolics, but this one today must not be confused in that classification."

The program for this afternoon and evening shows 40 first-run reels, all of high order, all good and each lasting about 15 minutes to run, the aggregate time being 10 hours. The first will start at 1 o'clock and the last (a first presentation of "The Musketeers") will end at 11 o'clock. There will be no admission charge, but those who are ready at the doors for such contributions as the patrons care to make, part of the proceeds will go to charity. The rest will be turned over to the Yaarab temple in full to send its patron and hand to the Shrine's meeting in Seattle in July.

Complete Program.

Following is the complete program.

ORR RETURNS FROM BIG EXPORT MEETING

Number of Country's Leading Business Men and Government Experts Attended.

J. K. Orr returned to the city Saturday morning from St. Louis, where he attended last week a highly interesting and important meeting of some of the largest and most influential business men in the country, who had gathered to discuss American exports. He had a very fine and enthusiastic meeting, said Mr. Orr. "It was attended by many leading bankers, manufacturers, high government officials and others. So far as I know, it was the only conference of this kind in the world. It was a trip worth while. Secretary Baughman was very much interested in the discussions. The president of the United States, Mr. Wilson, also there, besides many other government men. The discussion was along general export lines, particularly as to trade in South America. The majority of opinion was that the time was now most opportune to bring about a great sale over there. Of course, nothing definite was done—it was just a meeting to get things started. It was the possibilities which await our country in the exportation of goods. Every one who was there was in favor of our own salvation, so to speak, but the meeting will be the first step of much good to be accomplished along this line."

JOHN HOWZE IS KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE IN WEST

Athens, Ga., January 23.—(Special.) The remains of John Howze, aged 35, a prominent real estate agent, who was killed by an automobile in Los Angeles, will arrive in Athens Tuesday for burial here on the day following. He was a son of Judge A. C. Howze, of Birmingham, a grandson of the late Dr. J. H. B. Long of Athens, and a grandson of the late Dr. Crawford W. Long. Mr. Howze was killed in a terrible accident in Los Angeles on Wednesday.

IT RUINS HAIR TO WASH IT WITH SOAP

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps are prepared with too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for your hair is just ordinary mild coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and a shampoo and soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoons will wash the hair and scrub thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get mulsified coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Has a Cure For Pellagra

Pierre Nicholas, Laurel, Miss., writes: "Saw me to me if I had not obtained your remedy when I did I would not have lived much longer. I am glad you discovered this wonderful remedy that will cure Pellagra. When I began taking Haugh's Pellagra Remedy my weight was 100 pounds; now it is 150. I would like to have this published and sent to sufferers of Pellagra." If you suffer from Pellagra or know of anyone who suffers from Pellagra it is your duty to consult the renowned Haugh, who has fought and conquered the dreaded maddening right in the Pellagra Belt of Alabama. The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off, sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue a flaming red, and such nausea and vomiting, indigestion and nausea; either diarrhea or constipation. There is hope if you have Pellagra you can be cured by Haugh's Pellagra Remedy. Get a big bottle of Haugh's Pellagra Remedy. Address: American Compound, Box 2093, Jasper, Ala. Remembering money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure.—(adv.)

GEORGIA FIDDLERS MAY MEET THOSE OF OTHER STATES

Whether the Georgia Old-Time Fiddlers' convention shall be held in an all-southern championship affair is the problem which the association is now facing. The officers and members of the association, which is to hold its third annual convention at the Atlanta Auditorium next week.

Fiddler John Johnson, president holder of the Georgia championship, has announced his willingness to defend his title against all-comers, inviting fiddlers from Seattle to Key West to tickle the organ with him. But the Old-Time Fiddlers' association has hitherto confined its contests to Georgia musicians, and is anxious to have the state title definitely decided before extending its challenge to the outside world.

The matter is, therefore, still under discussion.

The question of throwing open the lists to all-comers was precipitated by a challenge received Saturday from the Cole Bros. Fiddling Club of Cleveland, S. C., offering to send a delegation of five of its best fiddlers to the Palmetto State to compete with Georgia's crack musicians at the convention which will open on February 2 and continue four nights.

We have been reading about Georgia fiddlers and their wonderful "fiddling," said the writer, "but we have never heard of their wonderful 'fiddling.' We will put Square Jones Twitwile up against the best man you've got for speed, endurance and melody, and nothing except playing by note. Square will not be the best man, but he will be the best of the rest of us. Just a few dollars, fast and frolicsome, is my motto. Let us know by next mail."

It is possible that a double championship may be arranged, one for Georgia only and the other for the state affair, but that detail will be worked out this day. It is indicated that more additions to the contest be played at the Auditorium this year than ever before.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will award of their benevolent Georgia musicians fiddling for fun rather than for money. The number of prominent people will be chosen, and the contest will be held, and it is probable that Judge Dick Russell, the prominent attorney, will spring, will serve as master of ceremonies.

B. C. RANDALL DIES OF PARALYSIS AT HOME IN GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., January 23.—(Special.) B. C. Randall, a prominent merchant of Griffin and past grand patriarch of Georgia Old Fellows, died at his home here at 8 o'clock tonight following an attack of paralysis at his store this morning.

Mr. Randall was 60 years of age and survived by a wife and three children. Mr. Randall was well known throughout the state and was especially prominent in fraternal circles and funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES OPEN AT NEGRO CHURCH

The annual evangelistic services of the First Congregational church, under the leadership of the pastor, Dr. J. H. B. Long, began this morning. Dr. Long, who is a member of the Tuskegee Bible school, has been in the city for several days, and is making a strong appeal for higher living. This is the first time in many years that he has been in the city, and he has always been a feature of large audiences. The services will continue until the 30th of every night the coming week, including the following Sunday.

ROGERS OPENS 55TH RETAIL GROCERY STORE

The chain of stores conducted by the W. Rogers company continues to grow. Another retail place was opened Saturday at 715 Madison avenue. The company found it necessary to establish this latest store to take care of the trade in Edgewood and the surrounding territory. The opening of new stores has grown to be almost a habit with the company, which are being established every few months. The 55th store, which makes the fifty-fifth to be operated by the Rogers company.

WATER FOR CHATSWORTH COMES FROM MOUNTAINS

Chatsworth, Ga., January 23.—(Special.)—Chatsworth, the new county seat of Murray county, is just completing a new water system, which will provide the town with pure water brought from the mountains 600 feet above the town.

During the year just closed there have been a number of small "antle buildings and dwellings erected in the town, and the number of buildings are now under way.

To the Chatsworth folk the story of hard times is a myth.

SIGNAL WORM DRIVEN MOTOR TRUCKS

From Points of Economy, Cost, Maintainance and Efficiency

A Convincing Testimonial

L. W. ROGERS COMPANY

GROCERS AND COFFEE ROASTERS

ATLANTA, GA. Jan. 23, 1915

Mr. G. C. Dugas,
Sou. Distributor Signal Motor Truck Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Dear Sir:

Pursuant to our conversation of this date regarding the Signal Motor Trucks I recently purchased from you, I wish to confirm same by letter, and to state my reasons for doing so.

Five years ago we began using what was then known as power wagons. We have used several makes, but the experience has proved costly to us. However, we now feel that the motor truck has passed through the experimental stage, and in keeping abreast of the times, we feel that the time has come when we must adopt the new era of transportation--standardized motor trucks.

This decision has brought to our attention many demonstrations of the leading trucks now on the market. We have given careful attention to the claims of all, but have finally decided to adopt the Signal Worm-Driven Motor Truck because in our opinion it is the best truck on the market. We reached this decision after a careful estimate of the cost of maintenance and operation of your truck, figuring the cost to us per ton to deliver and stock our fifty-four stores. This cost has been reduced to a minimum and will assist us to further reduce our already reduced prices to our patrons.

We believe your truck gives the greatest dollar-for-dollar value of any offered on the market. We purchased one of your ton trucks with a view of giving it about six months test, and then purchase another, but owing to the remarkable saving in delivery cost, though having used your truck only a short time, you are hereby authorized to enter our order for a one and one-half ton truck for immediate delivery.

I wish to thank you for the prompt manner in which you handle our business. It will give me pleasure to answer any and all inquiries from the trade pertaining to Signal trucks.

Yours very truly,

L. W. ROGERS CO.

It Behooves all First Class Automobile Dealers to Investigate the Merits of the Signal Truck.
Some Valuable Territory NOW Open.

THIS TRUCK IS A BUSINESS BUILDER

This is a mighty important factor to the dealer who is building for permanence. It is more important than immediate profits. A truck may sell because of low price or some fancied advantage only to fall down in the tests of hard usage. The immediate profits are lost in giving free service and repairs while the task of living down the hard feelings and bad reputation is even more costly. There is no such danger with the SIGNAL. It is a different kind of truck. It is not only built to sell, but is also built to serve. That is important, for a truck that serves faithfully and well is one that creates business for you. Every one on the road is a moving advertisement of SIGNAL quality and efficiency. This is mighty valuable, and the records these trucks make serve to bring new business to your doors. Therefore, a SIGNAL agency means a signal success. Why is the SIGNAL so successful? First of all--because it is built right. The standard parts used are typical of the construction throughout. Such names as Timken Axles and Bearings, Continental Motor, Brown-Lipe Transmission, Detroit Springs, Timken-David Brown Worm-Drive Rear Axle, Gemmer Steering Gear, Eisemann Magneto, Stromberg Carburetor tell an indisputable story of quality. Then the capacities--one ton and one and one-half ton, two ton and three ton--are the easiest to sell. They have the widest application to delivery conditions. The worm-drive and two lengths of wheel-base meet practically all requirements.

The SIGNAL sells because its quality and value are readily apparent and its adaptability is the greatest. It builds business because it gives such service that repeat orders and new business are inevitable. The agency for such a truck is profitable now and in the future. Surely you are sufficiently interested to write us now asking for proof. Write for agency proposition and catalogue.

J. M. HIGH CO.

By Jama Dooly.

"Efficiency is the keynote to real progress," say the wise ones who are looking about to see what philosophy they can apply to advance everybody in the onward direction. This efficiency must begin in the infant class of everything, inclusive of the infant class in dancing.

The most interesting class in Atlanta's social playground, when, after business hours are over, good citizens apply the philosophy of a "little non-sense now and then," etc. is Miss Ethel Mottson's infant class in tetrachordian art. Among the members are Dr. W. S. Elkin, John K. Ottley, Harry M. Atkinson, Albert Howell, Hollins and several others who, unlike those named, have not yet demonstrated in public.

The class, H. M. Atkinson so far has won the prize for faithful work with practice making rapidly for perfection. Though there are stipulated hours for classes, Miss Mottson has herself busy with her interested pupils on all occasions when dance music is played. They are very ambitious, and although they are so far taking the simpler conservative ballroom family class dances, one or two are ambitious enough to wish in time to take the more advanced and the like required in that artistic dance which the tetrachordian created.

REGULAR DINNER-DANCES.

Though there have not been as many entertainments this week making the after-holiday season, the regular club dances, those at the Capital City, the driving club and the Dredge Hills club have been most happy occasions, the married and unmarried contingent joining forces at the afternoon dancing parties.

Added to the list of visitors this week is Miss Madge Bannigan, of Providence, L. I. whose engagement to Mr. Phillip Engle will bring her here in time as a resident. She is a bright and attractive young woman, whose father, the late William Bannigan, had many friends in Atlanta.

The arrival of Mrs. Bishop, of New York and Park, to visit Mrs. Lee Lewman, will be the occasion of a series of happy gatherings in which Mrs. Bishop will be the center of attraction. Mrs. Bishop has been in New York for many years. She is in this country at present having come to visit her brother, Robert C. Lowry, in New York.

Her kinsman, Colonel Robert J. Lowry, invited a party of twelve to meet her at the Driving Club last night. Mrs. Bishop was an elegant toilet of black tulle, trimmed in satin jet and white roses. Mrs. Bishop will return to New York in early February.

MISS ROGERS WEDS A PRINCE.

An international marriage which will be of interest to many Atlanta people is that of Miss Elizabeth Reed Rogers, of Kentucky, and Prince Christian, of Philadelphia-Barchfeld-Hesse, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Jackson, Mr. Jackson her kinsman. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat carried a story about the marriage as follows:

"The marriage in Berlin Thursday of Miss Elizabeth Reed Rogers and Prince Christian, of Philadelphia-Barchfeld-Hesse, has an unusual interest to St. Louisans in the fact that the bride is a cousin of the former President, William McKinley, being related through her mother, who was Miss Eunice Tomlin, of Tennessee.

The bride is a Kentucky beauty, and has resided in New York, at the Plaza, with her parents, but made her debut into society in Washington, D. C. Her father held post colonial to Panama under President Taff. She is of the blonde type, with long, flowing golden hair and cornflower blue eyes. Her father is a Kentuckian, and inherited wealth from his father, and is himself recognized as one of the shrewdest lawyers in the United States. The family has resided much abroad.

The bride will not be permitted to bear the title of Princess Christian of Hesse, as also her husband's title, but the title by which they will be known will be decided upon personally by the emperor and will be published by royal decree."

COMING SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Valentine ball at the Driving club will conclude the social season, and will be a gala occasion, the club to include on the program of the ball many unique features.

During the Lenten season there will be many reading circles planned, while the announcement of interpretative lecture on the opera by the Atlanta Women's club indicates the interest in music drama and operatic singing.

There will be three brilliant weddings in April, two of them being leading to them not yet announced except among the intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The coming of Dr. William Norman Guthrie to lecture under the auspices of the Drama League, and Mr. Eugene Brieux, under the auspices of the Alliance Francaise, recedes Atlanta as an emphatically as grand opera does. Guthrie is one of the most successful actors in America, and has international fame for his attainment in the literature and art of the drama. His first lecture here inspired the first in the establishment of a drama league, and a quickened interest in dramatic study. Atlanta now has one of the largest groups of drama students in the country.

The lecture of Mr. Brieux, of the drama movement, and Dr. Guthrie's second coming marks his recognition of Atlanta's worthiness to become a center for the study of fine arts.

The selection of a theme, "The Religion of the Drama and Religion," will give him the opportunity to describe his successful institutional work in connection with St. Mark's church in New York, where he has established a theater for the pleasure and instruction of his church members.

The lecture of Mr. Brieux will be in French. He comes under the auspices of the Alliance Francaise, the national large circle of people in the city who are students and lovers of the French language. Brieux does not live very far from the south, but has many engagements in the east and west. In Massachusetts, he and Madame Brieux visited Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Jackson, who are now in the city.

Madame Brieux visited Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Jackson, who are now in the city. She visited Atlanta last fall as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ottley.

The Alliance and the Drama League will join in a banquet reception to Mr. Brieux.

PRETTY WOMEN IN PRETTY GOWNS.

As pretty as those read of, in the old days of the French salon, and with setting as artistic, were the Atlanta women who assembled at the dinner-dance at the Georgian Terrace Friday evening.

Mrs. Charles McGhee was one of the most attractive women present, wearing a white tulle gown with white draperies of white chiffon and trimmings of crystal. Mrs. Hollins Randolph was a lovely hostess in a party of eight, wearing a white lace and satin gown with French draped skirt of turquoise blue and gold brocade.

Mrs. John Marshall Stetson, in the party, wore a silver blue satin gown trimmed in crystal. Mrs. Ottley wore a dancing gown of royal blue with embroidery. Mrs. Theodore Hammond wore a white satin gown veiled in net.

Mrs. and Mrs. Harry Atkinson had a congenial party with them. Mrs. Atkinson's gown was of lace over pale green satin. Mrs. Albert Howell was lovely in cell blue tulle, made, made dancing fashion. Mrs. John Murphy's becoming gown was of black tulle and satin. Mrs. Clark Howell wore charmingly a white satin gown with tantraperies of net trimmed in crystal, finish given in a girlish of blue velvet.

Mrs. William Kiser wore rose colored chiffon.

In the party entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wessels, Mrs. Tom Daniel was one of the attractive members. Her gown of ivory colored silk veiled in lace. Mrs. John Evans wore a fan all white costume. Mrs. John Kiser wore gold colored satin and lace. Mrs. Ford was handsome in a dancing gown of white. The debutante beauty of the evening was Miss Bellinger, her dancing gown of coral colored silk, with touch of black giving finish.

Mrs. Werner Brock were a dancing gown of black velvet.

In other parties notable attractive were Mrs. Harry Eastleigh, Mrs. William Royter, of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Arthur Clark, John S. Coher, Mrs. W. McCreer, Mrs. Ida Howell Cramer, Mrs. Claude Weller, Mrs. Robert Grant, Mrs. Van Wilkinson, Mrs. G. A. Nicholson and Mrs. Hodgeman.

Miss Erna Elsenman was lovely in a dancing gown of white, the corage draperies in silver threaded net. Mrs. J. Conway's becoming gown was of pale blue silk. Mrs. Atkinson wore white net embroidered with trimmings of turquoise blue.

Mrs. Faine wore a white net gown embroidered in crystals, with finishing touch in cerise. Mrs. George Walker wore white satin with draperies of lace. Mrs. Beaumont Davison wore white charmeuse with trimmings of crystals. Mrs. William Chipley wore white charmeuse trimmed in sapphire blue velvet.

Mrs. McCarty wore a black velvet gown, made with full skirt, and under of silver.

Mrs. Helen Conroy, of Orange, N. J., was becomingly gowned in white chiffon and silver lace.

Mrs. Mary Murphy, one of the prettiest of the debutantes, was gowned in yellow charmeuse combined with chiffon.

Miss Emma Jordan wore a graceful dancing gown of lavender crepe de chine.

Miss Georgiana Tremere, of Kentucky, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Guy Woolford, wore yellow tulle trimmed with black velvet ribbon.

Miss Mabel Woolford, of Maryland, wore yellow chiffon and gold lace.

Miss Frances Godfrey, of Covington,

Monticello, and Mr. Fred Barnes, of Covington.

Among the bridesmaids, Miss Mildred Finney, of Haddock, and Miss Nell Stuart, of Forsyth, were lovely in lace and pink trimmings and black lace.

The bride's bouquet was pink roses, and the bridesmaids carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brogdon were host and hostess at a rook party on Friday evening.

The Symphony club are preparing to give a musical act at an early date.

G. N. & I. COLLEGE NOTES.

A voice and piano recital was held at the auditorium Saturday afternoon of last week. The following students took part: Marie Lillian Miller, Louise Cook, Marian Miller, Frances Livingston, Allen Parker, Macken and Mary Travis. The recital was unusually well rendered, the students receiving much praise and constant recital work being a great asset to these young musicians.

The seniors attended in a body, the exercises at the opera house on Tuesday morning, at which time the program was given by the United Daughters of the Confederacy in memory of Robert Lee. Under the direction of Miss Tucker, head of the music department, they sang a beautiful song, "The Starry Starry Night," by Professor G. N. & I. College.

Another stellar dinner was given on Saturday of last week. Belle Hinson and Mrs. Hinson were the hostesses. The girls who cooked and served were: Misses Nicholson, Gaines, Willie Mae Gower, Geraldine Holliman, Stephen Hubbard.

On Saturday of last week the students of the college, in the way of an illustrated lecture on the "Wonder of Electricity," by Mr. Louis Williams, this being a lecture number, 1, of the series, was given. The lecture was given, illustrating what electricity has accomplished and what it may do in the future.

Before the lecture the students saw "The Gentleman from Mississippi," a new comedy, which was a most amusing thing to come to this city are secured by President Parks to be shown at the college. The college owns its own moving picture apparatus, which is managed by Mr. Kemp, the electrician. Just after supper and before time for study.

Very rarely abused. Perhaps she is too serious and too taken up with mapping out her "career" to be injured by it.

Nearly every Russian girl "does" something after her education is finished, and the something almost always means serious work and not amusement or sport.

Two of the most charming women of my acquaintance were allowed the most unlimited freedom in their earliest years. Their parents allowed these two girls, Effren and sixteen years old, to take a villa in the Crimea and to spend the summer there, while they themselves went to Kissingen. The girls had a "chaperon"—a cousin, aged eighteen.

These young women spent their days bathing and boating and making jam. But they also put in some hard work, the two younger ones passing a stiff examination on their return to Petrograd in the autumn.

These privileges of freedom seem to date from a very distant period, for we find a young princess in the twelfth century defying her parents and refusing all her suitors—and this at the mature age of twelve. This princess, Evrosinia of Polotsk—then retired to a convent and, desiring to found a library, she began to buy and to copy various books. Then she founded a convent of her own, where she taught the nuns to read and to write. Later she also founded a monastery, and for forty years she ruled both institutions with great success.

The spirit of independence and the pursuit of a personal ideal which drove the young Princess Evrosinia to leave her home still lives in Russia. Today one can find scores of young girls, often of rich families, leaving distant homes, even against the wishes of their parents, and coming to the university towns to study. They live mostly alone or two or three together, very modestly, sharing what they have with other students. They will pawn or sell their last bit of jewelry to pay for some poorer friend's fees—or perhaps dinners.

In every university town there are special restaurants for students. These are run on unique lines. A great deal of the work is voluntary, and the food is extremely cheap owing to this and to the donations of people interested in the concern. The hard work, cooking, &c., is, of course, ordinary paid labor, but often the waiting is done by the students themselves, and the entire clerical and organizing work is undertaken by the women students and various women who form a committee.

One of the first steps taken by the public in Russia after the declaration of the war was the announcement that in such restaurants free meals would be served to the entire families of those students who had gone to serve their country.

The Russian woman has perhaps greater opportunities than any other woman of showing her powers of organization.

Every country suffers periodically from some national disaster, but Russia has almost continual disasters in the form of famines and cholera—the latter source being practically annual.

The women play a most important part in the actual work of relief in both cases. The work during a famine is heart-rending but comparatively simple, though there is often disease to be fought at the same time. But to work in a cholera-stricken district is more than heart-rending. It is dangerous in the extreme. The lack of proper hospitals, the unsanitary conditions in the villages, the inadequate and uncomfortable housing of the doctors and nurses combine to make the work ghastly. It requires real heroism to volunteer for such work. Yet you will find women of all classes flocking to the stricken district, nursing the sick and caring for the children, themselves worn out, hollow eyed and often hungry, working till they drop.

The Red Cross organization is always to the fore both during famines, and epidemics.

Between 1897 and 1900, when there were a series of terrible famines, this society spent more than 7,000,000 roubles (about £700,000) for relief, and another 7,000,000 in medical aid, and yet their capital not only remained untouched but was increased, so numerous were the donations received.

The Russian Red Cross was, by the way, founded by two women, Mme. Sabina and Baroness Fredericks, the latter also a Russian, though bearing a German name.

There are innumerable young women who are already veterans in this kind of relief work, and who with such training are likely to be of the greatest service when they undertake real Red Cross work.

There are numbers of other societies, also founded by women, and working more or less on the same lines as the Red Cross. They all have permanent hospitals and staffs, and attached to herald self-sacrifice." There is, unfortunately, not space enough to do more than mention the wonderful and far-reaching work of the "Society of Fraternal Help," founded by Princess N. Troubetsky, sister of Princess Shaborsky.

The idea of having a "flower" day to benefit such institutions is a very familiar one in Russia. There, as here, the idea originated with a woman. Every possible flower has its day. Marguerites are sold for funds for consumptives; lilies of the valley for children's crutches and homes; the wheat ear for the famine funds and so on. Recently a flag day was inaugurated and $20,000 was raised. This sum is destined for the first member of the Russian army who enters Berlin.

During a war more than at any other time the general efficiency of the women plays an important part in the success of their country. This is especially so where there is conscription, for it is inevitable that life should become disloated when all or most of the men are withdrawn from it. In Russia women fill so many posts which in other countries are the privilege of men that they are still there to carry on the work when the men are gone—and in any case they are willing to take up a variety of occupations from which they are barred at ordinary times. It is true that they are welcomed and are given all kinds of jobs. Women act as clerks in banks and they occupy every kind of position in the municipal organization, even in times of peace. In certain villages they are occasionally elected as "desiatniki"—that is, a kind of policeman—among whose duties is that of collecting the young men whose time has come to serve in the army.

During the Napoleonic wars there was even a woman "starosta" (elder of a village). Nastasia—that was her name—led her villagers, armed with scythes and pitchforks, against the French invaders and took a great number of prisoners.

The Cossack women for many years fought side by side with their men, going into battle armed with anything they could lay hands on. This tradition—for it became a tradition that the women should take an active part in any battle—seems to have originated in 1774, when the Cossack town of Naur was being besieged by the Tartars. The Cossack women helped by pouring not only boiling water and tar on the besiegers, but also the soup which they were cooking. Finally they became so hellacious that they sallied forth from the town dressed in their best red sarafans, armed and angry, and attacked the Tartars with great success.

And the Russian peasant women of to-day seem capable of living up to these traditions. Only a few days ago, when a German aeroplane fell in a village near the frontier, the women who were bringing in the harvest rushed to the spot and smashed the machine, beholding the two aviators with their fists and bay forks. They overcame them, although the Germans endeavored to defend themselves with revolvers, and held them until some soldiers arrived and rescued the prisoners.

The women are ready, however, to show their energy in more peaceful ways as well, and we hear they are conducting almost the entire tram and postal service in both the capitals.

STORY BY JOHN FLEMING WILSON. How many locked doors are there in this world? How many are the keys to the Master Key? Thomas Gallen found gold. He thought of two things: his daughter Ruth, and the money. Ruth was his pride and joy. When he thought he had killed in the desert, he had demanded a share of his gold. John Dorr, the mining engineer in whose charge Ruth was left, is also fighting to find the secret which Thomas Gallen apparently took with him to his grave.

The morning brought John Dorr, Ruth Gallen and Thomas Kane together to discuss the problems before them. The papers so necessary for the consummation of the deal that Everett had proposed were again lost; where they were gone, whether they had indeed fallen into Wilkerson's hands, none but Ruth knew. But more immediate was the need of the instant. Two plainclothesmen already sat near by, ready to take him to prison on a charge of killing Henry Pell.

"It really only a formality," said the manager of the hotel. "The man was a robber and Mr. Dorr tried to capture him, as he had every right to do, and the man was killed."

This failed to comfort Ruth. To her mind the presence of the burly officers, the fact that John was under arrest in a strange city, made her feel that her burdens were too great to bear. She sat holding the old cook's hand till Everett should come. He had already telephoned and she tried to be brave till he should come.

Everett arrived and the moment she saw him she heaved a sigh of relief. But she was capable looking, so cool, so seemingly cordial to John that even Tom Kane softened his grim visage a little. "I'm under arrest," John told him. "The officers were good enough to let me stay here till you came. Now I must be off. Let me introduce you all around."

This done, John Dorr went on. "They can tell you all about things, and when you've learned the worst come down and get me out, if you can." Everett agreed and Dorr rose, and with a smile, said good-by to his companions. As he left the hotel with an officer on either side of him, Ruth broke down and cried. Tom Kane comforted her as best he could till Everett suggested that they had best go to some more private place and discuss matters.

In Ruth's room she and the cook explained at length, Everett following their narrative carefully up to the incidents of the night before. When Ruth had finished and the cook was silent, Everett thought a moment, and then he laughed. "I don't mean to make fun of all this," he apologized, "but I've known John Dorr for years and this is precisely the kind of trouble he revels in." But he's in jail! Ruth protested tearfully.

"True enough," was the reply. "That is the first thing I must do, get him out. I'll be off now and see the district attorney and bail him out."

"Please hurry!" Ruth pleaded. "Don't worry," was the cheerful response. A moment later he was gone, promising to bring John back with him.

"What do you think of Mr. Everett?" Ruth demanded of Tom Kane.

The old man lit his pipe and scrutinized the ceiling. "Well," he said judicially, "considering the looks of them on Wilkerson's side and them on John's side, I should think that this Everett was on the right side."

With this judgment she had to be content. But she insisted that he tell her all about the conditions at the Master Key mine. "I know you haven't told me all the truth," she said.

"Well," he answered her, "there's not much to tell one way and a heap in another. The mine's practically shut down. You know, first you went away, then John and then Wilkerson. Pretty much all was left was me and Bill Tubbs. Bill, he kind of represented Wilkerson and I stuck up for John. The result was that things went to the bad and the boys they come to me and want to know how long they've got to lay off."

"I suppose you mean to say for a pay day," I says to 'em. So far as I know nobody has laid you off."

"They agreed with me, but said they couldn't feed their folks with no money, and if they got no money for it, why work?"

"They haven't been paid, then?"

"No. And Wilkerson cut off all credit at the store. I guess I got in bad with Tubbs when I divided up a lot of four and spuds that was in the cook shanty among the worst-off ones. There was some ugly talk, and before I could kind of settle the boys' minds they treated Bill pretty roughly. So I just told myself that I would come to San Francisco and explain things—how Wilkerson had deserted the camp and the mine was closed down and your people were starving."

"Oh!" murmured Ruth, aghast at the blunt story. "And I seemed to have been unfortunate all around, but I know that John will fix things."

Tom Kane fixed his honest old eyes on the girl and shook his head. "I don't want to discourage you, Ruthie," he said quietly, "but until that man Wilkerson is out of the mine for good, you can't do more than patch matters up temporarily."

The Fresh Plot

Meanwhile, Wilkerson and Jean Darnell were anxiously awaiting news from Henry Pell. When Drake arrived with the morning papers and said nothing articulate and only pointed to the headlines on the first page, both Wilkerson and Mrs. Darnell knew that something had happened again to spoil their plans. It was Wilkerson who snatched up the paper and read the news:

HOTEL THIEF HURLED TO DEATH

Guests of the Marx Hotel Have Fierce Struggle With Hotel Robber. Shortly before midnight last night, Miss Ruth Gallen, a guest at the Marx Hotel, entered her room to find a masked man looting her desk. Her cry for help frightened the thief and he made for the fire escape, followed by Miss Gallen's call. Mr. Dorr pursued the man to the roof and in the ensuing struggle, the desperado was either flung or fell to the street below. He was instantly killed.

Shortly afterward the body was identified by the police as that of Samuel Price, alias Henry Pell, an ex-convict and drug fiend.

Wilkerson read no further. He turned his ghastly face on Mrs. Darnell and said huskily, "He's dead!"

"Well, he won't tell any tales," was the cold response. "The question is, did he get the papers?" To this question there was no satisfactory answer until Wilkerson read down further and learned that nothing of value had been found on Pell's body.

"So he didn't get the deeds and Ruth still has them," Mrs. Darnell said bitterly. "That is the way all your plans succeed."

Wilkerson flushed. "There is one comfort," he said in an ugly tone. "Dorr is to be held for killing him."

"For how long?" asked Jean. "Until his friends get him out! And meanwhile you do nothing!" Wilkerson was thinking quickly. Suddenly he interrupted Jean to ask for pen and ink. She got them and he sat down at the table to write. Drake and Mrs. Darnell kept up a desultory conversation until he had finished.

There was a queer look in Jean's eyes as she

They rode for some time and as neither of them was acquainted with the city it did not occur to them that they were being rapidly covered into a part of town only partly built up and now veiled in dense clouds of swirling fog.

"It's a long way," Ruth remarked several times, but Kane merely grunted. He was busily pondering some method of extricating John Dorr.

Suddenly the car swerved around a corner, dived down a steep hill and came to a stop before a big gray building—the boarded-up residence of an absentee. Reaching back Drake opened the door and Ruth sprang out. A figure darted across the sidewalk and she felt herself clutched by the arm.

She looked into the gleaming cruel eyes of Wilkerson. "I've got you now!" he cried triumphantly. "Oh!" moaned Ruth, shrinking back in terror. "Yes, indeed," Wilkerson taunted her.

But at that moment he heard another voice, stern, commanding and familiar. He looked around into the muzzle of Tom Kane's revolver. For the moment they faced each other, while Ruth shrank back still farther. The old man's eyes gleamed and his trigger finger seemed to rest on the trigger with a precise and delicate touch.

"You here!" said Wilkerson with an oath. Suddenly the old man's temper flared up. The other saw death in his eyes, turned on his heel Wilkerson's last failure had driven him furious. He did not know what to do, and he especially dreaded returning to Jean Darnell with the news. He walked the streets for a long time, lunched in a cheap house and then doggedly started downtown. On the way he bought an evening paper and read of Drake's arrest.

As he expected, she flew into a towering rage; but her mind saw that Drake must be pacified, and she managed to control herself at last. She read the account carefully and then looked through the rest of the paper for some item about John Dorr. Her eye lit upon an advertisement, which she read twice before speaking, then she pointed it out to Wilkerson. He, too, read it: "FOUND—Deeds to certain mining property. On proof of ownership same will be returned. Reward expected. S. J. C. 201 Hill street."

"They must be the papers," he acknowledged. "Bell probably threw them away for fear of their being used as evidence against him, and someone picked them up."

"This time I shall see to the matter," Jean said sharply. "Whether they are the papers or not we must be sure."

"Other people will see that," he suggested. "All the more reason for hurry," she snapped. Then she called her maid.

The Papers

ashman and his wife think they were in possession of papers of extraordinary value. She pulled out her purse and held out five dollars. The man was taking it. His wife intervened.

"Twenty dollars," she said cunningly. Estelle bargained for some moments, and then said in a tone that was decisive, "If you show me the papers and they are the ones I want I'll give you fifteen dollars and no more."

The deeds were produced and a glance told her that they belonged to Ruth. She paid the money and hurried away.

Too Late!

Everett and Dorr had gone over the situation thoroughly together and the broker agreed that he would help out in the putting the Master Key mine on its feet again. "I think I can do it tomorrow," he said. "Just let me have all the papers and I'll go over them tonight."

"Ruth has them," John replied. "We'd best go up and get them now."

Ruth received them cheerfully and promptly went to her trunk for the deeds. Her first search was not rewarded and she lifted a puzzled face to John. Then she went more and more through all her belongings. It was fruitless. She then remembered the desk and searched it with the same result.

"They're gone!" she stammered. "Impossible!" said Dorr. "They must be somewhere here."

"No," she mourned. "They looked everywhere." Everett was the first to suggest that no time should be lost in locating the missing property. He sent for the evening papers and delved into the "Lost and Found" columns, with the result that he very soon handed a paper to Dorr and pointed out the advertisement which had attracted Wilkerson's attention.

Half an hour later John Dorr turned away from the man who had done it and said, "I'll tell you that was one of Wilkerson's crowd. We must notify the police before he can get away."

"They had soon told their difficulties to the sympathetic ear of an acquaintance and started back for the hotel. John was in the dumps.

"It seems as if everything goes wrong when I try to do something for that little woman," he growled.

"I begin to think myself that you are playing in hard luck," was the reply. "But I always did like a good fight, and this promises to be one. I'll stick, John."

They found Ruth and Tom Kane anxiously awaiting them. John simply stated the case and then turned to comfort Ruth. He was startled to see how white she was.

"Ruth! Ruth!" he cried in alarm. "What is the matter?"

There was no answer. She had fainted away. All else was forgotten for the time being. A maid and a doctor were quickly summoned and presently Ruth revived. Old Tom Kane was seated beside her patting her hand.

"The papers!" she moaned. "Don't you know where the papers are," he said promptly. "We'll look after them."

"But the folks at the mine—who will look after them," she pleaded.

The old cook took care that he would do so himself with John's help. At this point the doctor interfered with orders that she was to be perfectly quiet.

The other room they held a consultation. The physician listened to their explanation of what the girl had been through and then said gravely, "She must have an absolute change of scene for a time. Get her away from here instantly."

"But where?" Dorr demanded. "Why not take her to the southern part of the state for a little while?" he suggested. "But whatever you do, do it quickly. Her nerves won't stand much more."

"I know just the place," Everett said. "Take her to Los Angeles and then out into the hills to some quiet hotel. You can catch the night train."

"All of us," he said. "All of us go with her. I'll look after matters here for a week. If need be, I'll go down to the mine myself."

The Escape

With the papers safely in her possession at last, Jean Darnell became once more the guiding spirit, and told Wilkerson that there was only one thing for them to do: get out of town immediately.

"Drake is in a fever, and we'll have to bail him out through some third party. We dare not trust ourselves in the hands of the police. You can trust Dorr to be looking for those papers right this minute."

"I promised Drake by a messenger that we would have him out before night," he responded. "We must save ourselves first," she said angrily. "And we must be disguised."

After some argument, Wilkerson agreed, and they decided to go south.

"It will give us time to plan things out and you can work things out at your leisure," Jean told him.

"But how shall I disguise myself?" he demanded. Mrs. Darnell's eyes gleamed maliciously. "You must go as an old man," she told him. "My father, you see."

He rebelled, but finally acquiesced, and within a short time Jean and the maid had transformed him into a very respectable old man.

"Now go and buy our tickets," she ordered. "Estelle and I will pack up while you are gone." "Tickets to where?" "Tickets to Los Angeles," she snapped. So he departed, to return in an hour with the tickets and an expressman.

When the trunks were gone, Mrs. Darnell sat down with Wilkerson and they went over the situation again, with the result that she took his advice and disguised herself and made Estelle also do the same.

After a hasty supper they then called a taxi and went to the station. Mrs. Darnell and her maid immediately entered the drawing room reserved for them and Wilkerson fed the porter to make up his berth in the body of the car immediately.

"Safe!" he muttered to himself, as the wheels began to turn and he saw the faces of several plainclothesmen on the platform.

Neither he nor Mrs. Darnell were aware that in another car Ruth and her maid and John Dorr and Tom Kane were also heading for the south.

The Deeds Were Produced. A Glance Told That They Belonged to Ruth.

took the sheet he handed her and glanced at the writing. "I see you still can do it," she murmured. "Read it!" he growled.

Mrs. Darnell read it through silently and then aloud: "Dear Ruth: 'I hate to ask you to come down and see me in the jail, but I have something very important to tell you. Bring the papers, too. JOHN DORR.'"

"Are you sure he is in jail?" demanded the woman when she had finished, "and what is the idea of getting the papers into his hands?"

"He'll just turn them over to Everett," muttered Drake. Wilkerson smiled slyly. "The idea is that Drake here will disguise himself as a chauffeur, take this note to the hotel, see that it reaches Ruth and then drive her supposedly to the jail, but really to where I'll greet him."

They discussed the plan and at last agreed that it was feasible.

It was an hour later that Drake drove his rented car up before the hotel and delivered his note. It found Ruth still deep in conversation with Tom Kane and yet anxious for the return of Dorr and Everett. On the presentation of the note, which Wilkerson had forged, she instantly took alarm.

"John must be in trouble and Mr. Everett can't get him out," she said. "He's written for me to come down to the jail and see him and bring the papers."

"Humph!" said Kane. "That sounds funny to me." Ruth nodded, looking at the note. Then she said, more cheerfully, "I'll drive, anyway. Maybe he needs me. Now you old dear, leave me awhile."

Kane departed and Ruth quickly changed into street dress. While she was doing this the bellboy returned to say that a machine was waiting for her.

"The one that brought the note," he said. "He says he was told to wait."

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "Tell him I'll be right down."

When the boy had gone she called Tom Kane on the telephone and told him that she was going. John sent a car for her, she added.

"All right," came back the answer. "I'll just travel along. Maybe I might help John myself!" So it was agreed and they met in the lobby, where Ruth showed the note to the clerk in her impulsive way. Something in that official's expression made the old cook unobtrusively take out his revolver and see that it was in good condition. It followed Ruth to the street and into the waiting machine.

This move disconcerted Drake. He had not intended to have two passengers; but he saw no help for it and merely nodded when Ruth ordered him to take her to the city prison. He started his engine and they sped off up the hill.

and ran as fast as he could up the street. Without a second's hesitation Kane swung his weapon round till it covered Drake, cowering at his wheel.

"Now you drive us back to the hotel," he thundered. "And give me a false move I'll drill you as sure as God gave me good shooting eyes."

Drake saw that he was helpless and sulkily waited till they were in and then turned his car back toward the center of the city. Tom Kane sat grimly just behind him with his gun ready. And his mind was plotting things together. Suddenly he saw a policeman on his beat and realized that luck was playing his cards for him. He ordered Drake to halt and hailed the officer. To that moment what astonished individual the cook explained briefly that he had just fulfilled an abduction plot and that the chauffeur was in it. Though Drake strenuously denied the charge the policeman decided that it was a case for the captain.

"I'll just ride in front here and we'll go to headquarters," he remarked. "You can put up that gun, old fellow, for I'll see that young fellow doesn't cut up any monkeybusiness."

In the meantime Everett had successfully managed Dorr's business and he had been released on nominal bail for a hearing. "And I guess you won't find us very anxious to make it hard for you," said the prosecuting attorney.

Free again, John insisted on taking the quickest route to the hotel. Everett, sympathetic in this, agreed and in a few moments they were at the hotel inquiring for Ruth.

"Why, she left only a little while ago to see you in the prison," said the clerk. "She had a note from you."

"I wrote no note," said John. "Here it is," was the response. "She left it on the table in her hurry."

Eagerly John snatched the sheet of paper, but the instant his eyes lit on it he turned a furious face to Everett.

"That's a forgery—a trick," he said. "I never wrote it!"

Together they went outside and from the starter learned that a car had driven up, that the chauffeur had delivered a note and that later Ruth Gallen had come down and been driven off. "There was an old gentleman with her, Mr. Kane, I believe," the starter added.

John heaved a sigh of relief. "At any rate, Tom will see that she doesn't come to harm," he said. After a few more questions, which showed the futility of trying to find Ruth, they re-entered the hotel and sat down to a discussion of business. They were interrupted by the return of Ruth and the cook, who recounted their adventures.

"I'll get Wilkerson," John Dorr said quietly. "They had finished. Meanwhile we must get ahead with our fixing up of the affairs of the Master Key mine."

"I'll Be Off Now and Bail Him Out," Was Everett's Cheerful Response.

"Estelle," she said, "I want you to dress for the street and go on an errand for me. It is very important. You must hurry."

"Yes, madame—" "And if you show good judgment you shan't be sorry. You know how Miss Gallen dresses and act as if you want to impersonate her for a little while."

"But, madame—" "There is no danger at all," Mrs. Darnell went on. "All you have to do is to go to this address and get those papers."

The maid looked at the advertisement and finally consented to go to the Hill street address and see if they were really Ruth's deeds, and if so, recover them. In a few moments she had departed on her errand, and Wilkerson and Jean once more resigned themselves to waiting.

Estelle tripped along the street to a car line and took the first car that came along, which, the conductor informed her, crossed the street she sought.

Arriving at her street she got off and found herself in a neighborhood inhabited by very poor people. She looked and listened at the tumble-down shanties and dirty shacks that littered the rubbish-heaped yards. Two blocks up from the car line she found her number, a house slightly better kept than the others. At last she said quietly, "The yard an uptown ashman's cart. In the rear was a rickety stable. She entered the gate and rang the bell."

A very large, ill-dressed Italian woman opened the door, letting out a tremendous odor of garlic and cheese. She surveyed her caller with suspicion and then beamed.

"Oh, you come looks de papers?" she demanded. Estelle merely showed a copy of the advertisement.

"Yes, my husband, he put that in de paper," the woman said, losing her smile.

For some moments Estelle tried to get a glimpse of the documents. The Italian herself came on the scene and demanded a full description. When Estelle said that they had been lost from the Marx Hotel, she nodded and explained that when he had been moving the ashes therefrom, when he eye had been caught by the folded papers, but he still insisted on an accurate description, which the maid could not give. At last she said quietly, "The papers are of no value to you, and I am authorized to pay a good reward for them."

At the word reward there was a change, and the woman demanded to know how much it would be. Estelle thought rapidly. It had been impressed on her that haste was necessary. She decided on offering a goodly sum, yet not enough to make the

BLACK HAND NOTES SENT TO DECATUR CO. PEOPLE

Thomasville, Ga., January 22.—(Special.)—Several black hand letters demanding that $400 be sent to a certain address and threatening the destruction of his entire family and the destruction of his turpentine still in the event of failure to comply with the demand, have been received during the past week by G. W. Egan, of Iron City, DeKalb county. These letters are signed variously "The League of Death," "The Separate Society," etc. The letters are written on crows. It is said that several prominent citizens of this section have received similar letters.

High Commendation from Insurance Commissioner

DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE

STATE OF TENNESSEE

NASHVILLE

January twelfth,

Mr. E. C. Patton,
President Volunteer State Life Ins. Co.,
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Dear Sir:

Your annual statement for the year of 1914 has been examined and approved by this Department, it being the first annual 1914 statement received by us from any legal reserve life insurance company.

I herewith congratulate the Management and your policyholders upon the splendid condition of the Company, as shown by this statement. The record of the VOLUNTEER STATE LIFE, not only for the past year, but for each year since its organization, deserves the highest praise and commendation.

are all of high character and bear remunerative rates of interest. I am particularly impressed with your interest earnings on admitted assets, which run above 6%.

I especially commend your policy of lending the reserve funds largely to planters in the territory where collected, thus stimulating improvements in agricultural conditions, so greatly to be desired in this and other Southern States in which you operate.

Yours very truly,
Herbert Taylor
Insurance Commissioner.

The Atlanta Constitution Makes It Possible For You To Visit the Two Great International Expositions This Year Held at San Francisco and San Diego

DESCRIPTION OF CONSTITUTION TOUR No. 3, AND ITINERARY, GIVEN IN DETAIL BELOW

HOW YOU CAN OBTAIN A TRIP

The plan evolved by The Atlanta Constitution whereby you can take one of these wonderful trips as outlined is as simple in understanding as it is easy of execution. Although The Constitution has a large circulation, there are some who at present are not subscribers. They want the Daily and Sunday Constitution, but have put off ordering from day to day. The Constitution desires your assistance in locating and placing these people on its subscription list, and for this favor you are to be liberally rewarded.

Points will be given on each new subscription payment to The Atlanta Constitution according to the schedule given below and after you have obtained the required number of points a wonderful trip to the greatest of all expositions will be yours.

You may nominate yourself or a friend as a candidate for one of these trips. The names of all candidates nominated will be published in The Daily Constitution from time to time, giving their respective standing.

Each candidate on nomination will be credited with 100 points free, and will be provided with an authorized Constitution receipt book. These receipt books may be had by applying to the Circulation Department of The Constitution. Each candidate obtaining one of these free tours may take the trip to San Francisco any time during 1915 he or she may desire. The exposition opens on February 20, and closes December 4, 1915.

Special arrangements have been made with the McFarland Tourist Agency to furnish the various trips we are offering and the starting point of all of the successful candidates will be Atlanta. If you want to go to the exposition this is your opportunity. Send in your nomination at once and request The Constitution Receipt Book.

Description of Southwest Circle Tour No. 1 and No. 2, also "PANAMA CANAL TOURS," No. 4 and No. 5, will be furnished upon application.

No. 1 Constitution "SPECIAL" tour, known as "SOUTHWEST CIRCLE," is a special sixteen day tour and will be given for 4,800 points.

No. 2 Constitution "STANDARD" Tour, a Southwest circle tour of 24 days, covering over 7,000 miles, given for 6,400 points.

Nos. 4 and 5 CONSTITUTION "PANAMA CANAL" Tour, a 14,000-mile circle tour of thirty-five days by steamer and rail, given for 11,800 points and 12,600 points.

FREE NOMINATION BLANK

Constitution Exposition Tour Campaign

GOOD FOR 100 POINTS

Toward Securing Points for Free Tour to Panama-Pacific International Exposition, in 1915.

Name

Address

NOTICE—Only one entry blank will be allowed and credited to each candidate.

In each one of the trip offers, Numbers 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, we have tried to state clearly, yet briefly, just exactly what a candidate may depend upon.

Trip No. 3, in our opinion, is the most desirable, and we have put it first. Trips Numbers 1 and 2 are practically the same—No. 2 giving stopovers and furnishing meals, as stated therein, No. 1, however, being a direct route to San Francisco with six or seven days and back direct to Atlanta.

Trips Numbers 4 and 5 are really one and the same. No. 4 is for inside rooms, No. 5 being for outside rooms. Outside rooms being most desirable, cost considerably more. We make it in two offers, however, so that a person can decide which he most desires to work for.

In order that the participants may be able to earn extra spending money, the following offer is made:

Anyone who has secured enough points to win any one trip may earn spending money on the following basis:

For an additional 850 points	$25.00 cash
For an additional 1,700 points	50.00 cash
For an additional 2,550 points	75.00 cash
For an additional 3,400 points	100.00 cash

And additional cash payments on the same basis.

All are desirable trips, but space will not permit description of each tour. Anyone interested can obtain the desired information by calling on or writing to the Circulation Department of The Atlanta Constitution.

The greater part of all the expenses of all the trips offered by The Constitution are paid with the exception of No. 1. This is a great opportunity for you to secure almost wholly an expense-paid trip to San Francisco and return. It is an opportunity that you should not neglect, and it is one that may never be presented to you again under like circumstances.

We want to have it understood that our guests who take the Northern trip may have an opportunity to visit Yellowstone Park on their return trip, yet it is not included in our offer. This side trip will cost $65.00 extra, or 1,800 additional points, as fully explained in the description of trip No. 3.

Pike's Peak will cost $50.00 extra, or 200 extra points, and Crystal Park will cost $25.00 extra or 100 extra points.

Candidates are to understand that this is not a contest and the winning of a trip by one candidate in no way involves the winning of another candidate. There are enough trips for all, and any person who obtains enough points, as outlined above, will receive a trip regardless of the work accomplished by other candidates.

Any candidate who secures one-half of the required number of points to earn one of these trips and who is unable to continue the work, will be given credit pro rata for his or her points registered, and can, by paying the difference in cash, commission of 10 per cent if the amount of new business is under $100.00, and 20 per cent if the amount of new business exceeds $100.00 of his or her total collections on new subscriptions.

The Constitution does not expect something for nothing, nor does it desire to involve the good people of this vicinity in any plan resulting in remuneration for

NO. 3—CONSTITUTION TOUR "DE LUXE"

Northwest Circle Tour of 30 Days, Covering More Than 9,000 Miles by Rail and Steamer

Given For 7,800 Points

This Tour includes some of the most interesting parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico. As much can be seen on this trip as on a tour around the world.

The Canadian National Park, British Columbia, Rocky Mountains, Puget Sound, California, Golden Gate, Mexico, Yellowstone Park, Royal Gorge, Pike's Peak, Garden of the Gods, the Mormons in Utah, the Cowboys and Indians, all have formed themes of grandeur and romance for the writers of the age.

Never before has such a marvelous collection of travel features been offered on such terms by any newspaper.

ITINERARY

CHICAGO—ONE DAY. will be spent in Chicago, the second largest city in the United States, shopping at the Great Northern Hotel. Special automobiles will carry the party for a tour of the city.

ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS. the twin cities of the Northwest, the center of the great wheat-growing section, will have the party for several hours. A trolley tour of the two cities will be given the party.

CANADA—Two days will be spent on our luxurious train, speeding through the great wheat and cattle countries of Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada.

CANADIAN NATIONAL PARK—TWO DAYS will be spent in the Canadian National Park. This park forms a continuous panorama of bewildering magnificence, wondrous glacial fields, startling precipices, snow-capped peaks, wide forest areas, clear lakes and powerful rivers, combine in making this indeed the "Wonderland of America." A side trip to Great Glacier included.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—After a short stop in Vancouver, the party will board the Canadian Pacific steamer for a day's sail to Puget Sound on our way to Seattle, visiting Victoria en route, with a trip through the Parliament Buildings.

SEATTLE. the "Queen City of the Northwest," will entertain the party for one day, stopping at the New Richmond Hotel. Here an automobile tour of the city will be taken our party.

PORTLAND. the Rose City of the Northwest, will be a stop of special interest, our party stopping at the Howard Hotel. A special trolley trip will be arranged for our party.

PACIFIC OCEAN. This trip would be incomplete without a cruise on the Pacific Ocean. The party will be given a special gift and comfort to our travelers. For this sail we will use the new palatial liner, "GREAT NORTHERN," the finest ocean-going steamer ever built in the United States. This ship is 424 feet in length, with a tonnage of 12,000 and accommodations for 1,000 people. Passengers will have choice of steamer or rail between Portland and San Francisco, where no time is given five days in advance of leaving time.

SAN FRANCISCO—SEVEN DAYS will be spent in San Francisco at the world's greatest exposition, "The Golden Gate," will surpass itself with a panorama of never ending brilliancy. The grandeur and magnificence of the huge exhibition palaces and the Grand Court of Honor stamp it as the University of Universities. Illuminated fountains, Oriental Gardens, Beauty Showers, Life, Art, Grandeur—everything you could desire is provided for eight nights at the renowned Argonaut Hotel, where you will be made to feel "at home" in every way.

We give our party the following assortment of side trips while here: Muir Woods via the crookedest railway in the world to the "Big Trees" in California. Auto seeing trip to San Francisco, including Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Seal Rocks, Trip to Oakland, University of California and Berkeley.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. the land of perpetual sunshine and flowers, will be viewed from our luxurious train of reclining chair cars, with stops at many points of interest, including Santa Cruz and San Barbara, during a daylight run from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

The route of our train will include the Pacific Coast line, paralleling the ocean for hundreds of miles, and in some instances projecting over the ocean itself. This route will include the most picturesque scenery of California, as well as the great fruit growing section.

LOS ANGELES. the "City of the Angels" will have our party for three days, giving ample time to view the many interesting places in this section. No city in the other states more centrally located, this city, which are varied, historical and beautiful. Lodging for three nights will be furnished at the famous Hotel Roney.

One day will be spent on a circular tour of surrounding country, visiting the mountains from Los Angeles to the coast.

Beginning on May 16th, from Atlanta, they will operate a special train on their Northwest Tour every fifteen days throughout the period of the Exposition.

These special Exposition trains will be the most complete and palatial Pullman ever operated in connection with a new paper, being composed of Standard, Compartment, Drawing Room, Observation, Library, Dining and Baggage Cars, affording every modern railway comfort.

These special trains will be in charge of experienced Personal Conductors, who will look after the pleasure and comfort of our tourists at all times.

The Constitution Tour, No. 3 will include transportation, Pullman, every meal for the entire tour, except in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, where, for obvious reasons, it is not practicable to include meals and have the party come to one certain place. Staterooms and meals on steamers, high-class modern hotels in all cities visited, side trips in all cities visited, where specified.

Tour No. 3 is based on three persons to each Pullman section, or compartment, and four to each drawing room. Exclusive Angles to the sea, then 25 miles along the ocean shore, visiting ten beaches and eight cities, with free admittance to many attractions at these places. We have selected this trip, together with the Catalina Island sail, which is taken from this city, as two of our most delightful side trips that we give the members of our parties.

CATALINA ISLAND. one of the famous resorts of the world, will be included as part of our tour, and will be a trip of surpassing interest. One entire day will be spent on this island, and will carry us into a land of perfect enchantment. Here is located the famous submarine gardens of the Pacific ocean, which may be viewed from glass-bottom boats.

SAN DIEGO—Two days will be spent here at the "Exposition Universelle." This exposition has been building for six years, and a building will be covered with a wealth of flowers, vines and tropical plants. Huge palms, weighing 10 tons will be planted in the grounds. Nearly three million specimens of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers will be planted in the grounds, and the grounds, built on one of the oldest cities in California, and many traces of its Spanish origin still remain in its streets and ruins. The party will be given lodging at the world-renowned San Diego hotel. The trip to Mexico will be made from here.

MEXICO will naturally be a point of great interest to our tourists, and we have arranged to complement our patrons with a special trip to Tijuana, Mexico, where many points of interest will be seen, including Boundary Monument. For some of recent history, curiosities, customs of life.

SALT LAKE CITY—One day will be spent in Salt Lake City, stopping at the Knaysen Hotel. Here, beside a dead sea, is a great number of many attractions. In Temple Square, which is surrounded by great stone walls, is the great Mormon Temple, ranking among the finest buildings in the world. In the temple is the greatest pipe organ ever built. Free rail fares are arranged for visitors.

THE PLAINS will be viewed with interest on our daylight run from Denver to Salt Lake City, through Kansas and Missouri, then to Atlanta, the end of the journey, as well as the starting point.

PICTURE

Exciting Auto Chase
In "The Master Key"
At Alpha Monday

Alpha, is full of interesting scenes. While Kane is telling Ruth of affairs at the mine, Wilkerson and his associates send her a forged notes and induce her to go with Kane in an auto the missing degree in the meantime are found by the woman's father.

On Tuesday the management will present "Their Lovers," an exciting melodrama, featuring Edna May and Ray Gallagher as a young married couple who are separated by a neighbor, and his wife leaves him to become a nurse in a leper colony. The picture is later shown in its entirety, and the man returns to his wife planning to expose him to the police. The picture is shown on the following Tuesday, and the man's return, when the picture is shown, is his wife's death.

On Wednesday the picture is made upon the love of man and wife and the accompanying drama, and the photograph is good.

VOLANO-VIRTUOSO
GRAND INSTRUMENT

One of the most wonderful instruments of this age is the Volano-Virtuoso, which is now being shown at the Montgomery theater all week. The instrument is an automatic violin that can play any piece of music that is put into it. It is a very interesting and useful instrument, and it is a great pleasure to see it in action.
